

Mountain hay meadows

economic, social and environmental value

23-24. May 2013

Conference at the Boros Guesthouse, Gyimesközéplak, Romania

Conference organised by the Pogány-havas Association

European policies put increasing emphasis on improving the economic assessment of the benefits provided by nature to society (ecosystem services), but the methodology of this valuation is not yet fully developed. As such, benefits from nature, and in our case, mountain meadows are not fully reflected in the policies which seek to protect them.

This conference will bring together experts and practitioners in various fields (i.e. farmers, biologists, sociologists, economists, ethnographers, policy makers and NGOs in Romania and abroad) to discuss and improve the appreciation, conservation and sustainable management of hay meadows.
